

The Durham Museum

Housed in Omaha's Union Station, The Durham Museum is one of the region's most dynamic historical and cultural institutions. As a premier family destination and educational resource, the museum is dedicated to preserving our community's vibrant past while hosting exciting exhibitions and programs that explore topics ranging from history and culture to science and industry.

The On Track Guild

On Track Guild members make an impact all year long by volunteering their time and talents for exhibits and special engagements, helping with museum mailings and staff appreciation, facilitating key educational and community-based events and raising financial support to advance The Durham's mission. However you choose to help, know that your involvement will make a difference.
