GUITAR

The Instrument That Rocked The World

ON DISPLAY
FEB 6-
APRIL 25

GUITAR: The Instrument That Rocked The World takes visitors of all ages on a fascinating and engaging exploration of the art, science, sound, history and pop culture behind the world's most popular instrument! Featuring a unique collection of more than 70 instruments - ranging from the rare and antique to the wildly popular and innovative - along with performance video, models and more, GUITAR gives you a chance to enjoy the instrument not only from the perspective of its history, evolution, and design, but through the music it has created and the technology that continues to enhance it.

Packed with STEAM-based elements, GUITAR introduces visitors to concepts including electromagnetism, sound waves, frequency, decibel levels, mathematical scales, engineering design and much more.

GUITAR: The Instrument That Rocked The World is a Touring Exhibition of The National GUITAR Museum.

INSTRUMENTAL: MAKING MUSIC WITH THE OMAHA CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

February 6 – April 25

The museum has partnered with the Omaha Conservatory of Music to showcase how instruments can be made from all kinds of things! In Instrumental: Making Music with the Omaha Conservatory of Music, guests can learn how to make their own instruments with things they have at home. This interactive display provides inspiration for trying something new and a history of the global story many centuries long of people making music. Experience in-house creations like our 8-ft rain stick or play in the cajon drum circle. We hope it encourages you to do-it-yourself at home!

VISITOR FAQs

All visitors, including members, must reserve a timed entry ticket in advance online or over the phone. During your visit, masks and social distancing measures are required.

COMING SOON! BEYOND THE VOTE

March 6, 2021 – January 30, 2022

Over 100 years ago, women got the right to vote. The Durham is pleased to present a unique exhibition experience exploring the lasting impact of the 19th Amendment. Beyond the Vote will blend iconic images of the past from our partners at the Smithsonian Institution and Library of Congress with original contemporary artwork created by seven local artists. The exhibit will explore the themes at the heart of the suffrage movement—both for and against—and how those same themes about a woman's place in the world continue to resonate today.

Instruments can be made from all kinds of things—from cigar boxes to cardboard tubes!

Along with historic images, the exhibit features contemporary artwork by local artists including Celeste Butler's "Enough: We are the Daughters of..."

VIRTUAL LECTURES & PRESENTATIONS

These activities are free, but registration is required. Register online or call 402-444-5071. Once you have registered, you will be emailed a link to access the program.

FIVE HUNDRED YEARS OF THE GUITAR Tuesday, February 16, 6:30PM

Kenneth Bé presents the history and development of the guitar from the 14th to the 19th Centuries. For many years Bé has been performing music from past centuries on replicas of early stringed instruments from the Medieval through the Baroque periods. This virtual presentation will take place alongside museum educators with a special look at GUITAR: The Instrument That Rocked the World.

HARRIET TUBMAN Portrayed by Dr. Daisy Century Tuesday, March 2, 6:30PM

Harriet Tubman couldn't read or write, suffered from epilepsy, was repeatedly threatened, beaten and starved, and emerged from these trials an ardent abolitionist, humanitarian and Union spy during the Civil War. Not content to find freedom herself, Ms. Tubman rescued others from their bondage through the Underground Railroad. After the Civil War, she was active in the struggle for women's suffrage. Joining us from American Historical Theatre in Philadelphia, Dr. Daisy Century captures the intensity of Tubman's faith and the depth of her passion for freedom—for herself and for all who were oppressed. She takes her audience on Tubman's remarkable journey through the underground railroad—from slavery to freedom!

This program is presented to the public as a conclusion to The Durham Museum's Scholars in Residence program celebrating Black History Month. Dr. Century will present virtually to thousands of students across the metro sharing Harriet Tubman's inspiring story.
